AUTHOR INDEX

VOLUME XIX (FALL 1991 through SUMMER 1992)

Anderson, Mick
Case Corner response. XIX, 3 (Spring 1992).

Anderson, T.R.
Restructuring schools with the forgotten solution: Community education. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Bérubé, Barney
An invitation to the dance: From dragons to wolves. XIX, 4 (Summer 1992).

Branch, Robert C.
Strategies for incorporating cultural pluralism into teaching from an instructional design perspective. XIX, 4 (Summer 1992).

Brigham, Dave
Strategies for incorporating cultural pluralism into teaching from an instructional design perspective. XIX, 4 (Summer 1992).

Cady, Dan
Community education — Restructured to meet the needs of an urban community in the 1990s and beyond. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Chang, Echeol
Strategies for incorporating cultural pluralism into teaching from an instructional design perspective. XIX, 4 (Summer 1992).

Cirone, William J.
The Co-Op Bridge by Cynthia Parsons (book review). XIX, 1 (Fall 1991).

Day, Michael
Bridging the generation gap with school computers. XIX, 3 (Spring 1992).

Decker, Larry E.
Building learning communities: The realities of educational restructuring. XIX, 3 (Spring 1992)

In the forefront of reform. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

National leaders speak out on community education. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Dillon, Richard M.
Does community education make a difference on parent attitudes and participation in their children's school? XIX, 1 (Fall 1991).

Dunlap, Nancy Cassity
South Carolina's total quality education: A state model for community education. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Dunn, Kenneth
Learning styles and the community educator. XIX, 4 (Summer 1992).

Flannery, Daniele D.
Towards an understanding and implementation of culturally diverse learning styles. XIX, 4 (Summer 1992).

Freedman, Susan
School and the community working together: Community education in Springfield, Massachusetts. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Guglielmino, Lucy M.
The phoenix on sixth street: Community education in action. XIX, 1 (Fall 1991).

Harris, Mary Ann
Interagency partnerships: A framework for community control of public schools. XIX, 1 (Fall 1991).

Heck, Ronald H.
Does community education make a difference on parent attitudes and participation in their children's school? XIX, 1 (Fall 1991).

Hetrick, William M.
Community education in education reform: How have we contributed? XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Holcome, Kenneth I.
Case Corner response. XIX, 3 (Spring 1992).

Jackson, Elaine.
Case Corner repsonse. XIX, 1 (Fall 1991).

Jackson, Sara C.
Play for special children and their parents: A university serves community needs through a very special program. XIX, 3 (Spring 1992).

Jeffrey, John
Restructuring schools with the forgotten solution: Community education. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Johnson, Phylis A.W.
Turning up the volume on community education. XIX, 3 (Spring 1992).

Kulage, Karen A.
Leadership for change in multicultural environments. XIX, 1 (Fall 1991).

Kussrow, Paul G.
The community educator's role in academic achievement. XIX, 3 (Spring 1992).

Learning styles and the community educator. XIX, 4 (Summer 1992).

Layson, Ruby
Kentucky's family resource and youth services centers: An expanded role for community education. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Martel, Larry
The community educator's role in academic achievement. XIX, 3 (Spring 1992).

Melaville, Atelia I.
Collaboration: Building communities where learning can happen. XIX, 1 (Fall 1991).

Messner, Phillip E.
Case Corner response. XIX, 1 (Fall 1991).

Moore, Linda R.
Community education and education reform: Where the states are now. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Mullett, Sherry
Community education: A foundation for education reform in Ohio. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Myers, John L.
Legislative leadership for education reform. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Nance, Everette E.
Social change: The schools, the courts, the government, the people. XIX, 4 (Summer 1992).

Negroni, Peter J.
School and the community working together: Community education in Springfield, Massachusetts. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Nielsen, Barbara Stock
South Carolina's total quality education: A state model for community education. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Paret, Andrea M.
Delinquent youth: Rehabilitation or prevention - what can community education do? XIX, 1 (Fall 1991).

Potts, Stan
Community education in Wisconsin. XIX, 3 (Spring 1992).

Rachynski, Lucy J.
Meeting lifelong learning needs of the future: An "instruction and training" program. XIX, 3 (Spring 1992).

Rochford, Jacquelyn A.
Effective schools and community education: A partnership for education change. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Rohrer, Hugh
Community education — Restructured to meet the needs of an urban community in the 1990s and beyond. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Romney, Valerie A.
In the forefront of reform. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

National community education needs assessment: Issues, materials and training needs. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Santellanes, David A.
Cultural diversity versus cultural assimilation. XIX, 4 (Summer 1992).

Scheel, Nancy
Strategies for incorporating cultural pluralism into teaching from an instructional design perspective. XIX, 4 (Summer 199[illegible].

Schoeny, Donna
National leaders speak out on community education. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Scott, Sue M.
A case study of the Lincoln Alliance: Themes of democracy in adult learning. XIX, 1 (Fall 1991).

Shoop, Robert J.
Sexual Harrassment: Some men still don't get it! XIX, 3 (Spring 1992).

I promised not to sue you, but I've changed my mind. XIX, 1 (Fall 1991).

Trybus, Margaret
Reaching out through the common language of the folk arts. XIX, 4 (Summer 1992).

Ward, Carolyn M.
Social change: The schools, the courts, the government, the people. XIX, 4 (Summer 1992).

Weaver, Donald C.
The community education ethos: Relationship of principles to practice. XIX, 2 (Winter 1992).

Welburn, Brenda Lilienthal
From The American Tapestry: Educating a Nation. XIX, 4 (Summer 1992).

West, Philip T.
Computer mania at the crosstown community schools. XIX, 1 (Fall 1991).